CIRCUIT COURT FINISHES WORK

Through in Time to Take Thanksgiving.

THE TERM A SHORT ONE

Grand Jury Busy Until Last Day of Court--Great Deal of Detail Matter Hand.

CASES DISPOSED OF DURING TERM.

The docket for the November term of court being a short one, the court went through its usual routine of business and finished the work it had to do Wednesday.

Most of the cases on docket were continued and the court congratulated itself on winding up in time for Thanksgiving.

The grand jury had a great deal of detail matter put before it for consideration and did not conclude its session until the last day of court. Among the cases on docket the following were disposed of:

Commonwealth vs. Charlie Hunt, giving liquor to minor, dismissed.

Same vs. Standard Oil Company, peddling oil without license. In one case fined $100, five other cases being filed away.

Same vs. Pauline Thompson, same for failing to file statement in secretary of state office, fined $100, an appeal being taken to the higher court.

Same vs. Frank Moore, malicious shooting, submitted to court, fined $50 on felony charge, same vs. Hey Stalions, forgery, tried by jury and acquitted.

Same vs. L. R. R. Co., failing to ring bell or sound whistle at public or highway crossing, two cases tried, fined $100 in one and $150 in other, and two other cases were filed away.

Same vs. Peoples' Independent Telephone Company, trespassing, default judgment and fined $50.

Same vs. Paducah Commission Company, maintaining a public nuisance, fined $100.

Same vs. Hayes Chambliss, breach of peace, fined $10.

Same vs. J. D. Gregory, carrying concealed and deadly weapons, fined $25.

Same vs. Sam Sullenger, breach of peace, fined $5.

The common law docket is as follows:

D. W. Stone vs. L. C. R. R., settled. G. J. Green vs. J. R. Hobler, et al., agreed settlement.

R. W. King, admr. vs. A. D. Nor, et al., dismissed on agreed indemnity of $200.

A. H. Cardin vs. M. C. O'Hara, judgment.

M. F. Wilson vs. L. C. R. R., dismissed, settled.

R. W. Wilson vs. Fleming Akers, dismissed on agreed judgment.

Reedus & Anderson vs. L. C. Skelton, judgment.

J. R. James vs. J. W. Wigginton, administrator, judgment.

Heliza Brown vs. National Benevolent Society, judgment.

R. W. Wilson vs. R. T. Mayes, dismissed, settled.

W. H. Neal vs. Adams & Pierce, judgment.

Henn & Soek Co. vs. Mrs. P. Flew, judgment.

Martha C. Hardin vs. Columbia Mining Co., dismissed without prejudice.

T. W. Felkner vs. Robert Spencer, dismissed, settled.

The equity cases that were considered, being argued in court, were disposed of under last day orders.

The grand jury returned thirty-two indictments, twenty-five misdemeanors and seven felony cases.

How to Have Good Health.

Voluntary exercise is a health essential, although one may not die for want of it for many years. It is not strictly a life essential, but the road to perfect health lies through a certain amount of daily use of the muscles of the entire body. Most of our folks get plenty of exercise; some too much. Women doing house work may use all the muscles fairly well. And so with men doing ordinary farm work, or chores. The elderly, who do not work much, and those following sedentary occupations, should take some regular exercise, if they want to keep entirely well. It is nature's law. The use of any muscle wears it out a little, and new material from the blood builds it up again, hence the importance of drinking enough pure water, eating proper food and breathing plenty of pure air, so the heart can send out good rich red blood to all parts of the body to renew it as it is needed. But it is just as important for good health that some of the old body should die and be carried away by the blood to the various organs of elimination which take the waste out of the body. And this process of dying and being renewed, atom by atom, can not go on freely unless the muscles are used freely. Without taking any exercise at all intentionally you are still getting quite a little. You couldn't live if you did not.

Every breath you draw and every movement of the heart, chewing and the process of digestion all are using up some muscular tissue, but not enough for ill health. Some muscles are not used and the law of life is use it or lose it. It is possible to get along fairly well with very little intentional exercise, if one is willing to eat very little needlessly, but it is better to use all muscles moderately at least, and then eat enough to supply their wants. Walking is an excellent exercise for the man who is not used to it, and for the woman who is not used to it, and for the child who is not used to it. You can hardly build up vitality as fast as you can lose it by proper walking in the open air. But be sure not to overdo this or any other exercise. It is just the current thing in the world to go too far in this line. The water has three and again a little exercise stimulates decidedly. One feels better, and then does more and feels better yet, and so on until he becomes overdone and is worse off than before he began. Learn just how much is needed to keep you feeling splendidly and be at least very moderate about doing any more. The eliminating organs mentioned above are the bowels, kidneys, lungs and skin. Nature carries off the waste of the food and of those in these four ways. It is all important that you so live that perfect work can be done by each one of these four organs. Alas, very few people do. If you attend properly to the four life essentials of air, water, sleep and food, there should never be any trouble about perfect working of bowels, kidneys and lungs.

THE NEW DINING CAR SERVICE EXCELLENT

"The Comfortable Way"--Title Won by Great Northern Railway--A Hotel on Wheels.

It is, perhaps, best to say that in every respect—climate, cuisine and attendants, the dining car service of the "Oriental Limited" is in keeping with the luxuriousness of the remainder of this regal train, and has won, as the dining car service has always helped to win, the title, "The Comfortable Way". For the Great Northern Railway. The new dining car service of the "Oriental Limited" equals in beauty, design and interior furnishings anything which is operated on any transcontinental line. Every luxury which a first-class hotel or club affords in the way of service is really on the dining car of the "Oriental Limited". The new dining cars were built with a special purpose in view of affording the most comfortable surroundings, as well as giving the traveler a unique and luxurious place in which to enjoy his meals. A gentleman who recently made the journey to the coast from St. Paul on the "Oriental Limited," in speaking of the dining car service, said:

"I have traveled on almost every important railroad in the United States but I have yet to find one which surpasses the 'Oriental Limited' in the comfort and convenience afforded the traveler. Your dining car service is excellent, the equal of any in the country, and the superior of many. I was particularly struck with the beauty of the interior furnishings of these dining cars; they are really a novelty of car architecture."

One of these days the man who gets scolded when he complains of his wife's blarney, will drop dead when he hears her apologizing for them to company.

ASSOCIATION GAINS POINT

The Hopkinsville New Era Makes the

FOLLOWING STATEMENT WITH

Reference to the Sale of Tobacco Belonging to the Growers' Association.

ORGANIZATION MAKES GOOD SALES

There is general rejoicing throughout the dark tobacco district of Kentucky and Tennessee over the official announcement by F. G. Ewing, chairman of the executive committee of the farmers' association, of the sale of from 5,000 to 6,000 hogheads of the 1905 crop, which is held by the association, to W. G. Dunnington, representing Joseph Perigo, who holds the logistic contract. The average price secured was $8.50 per hundred pounds, figures ranging from $7 to $12, and this will bring from $700,000 to $800,000 to the farmers of the district. New Era.

A Birthday Surprise.

Thursday, November 23 was the fifty-sixth birthday of J. A. C. Pickens, Crittenden county's popular and efficient deputy sheriff.

The day was ideal just like a May morning. The gentle breezes were as soft as if they had been carried on the wings of lovely June.

Though pressed with the business of circuit court, Sheriff Land informed Mr. Pickens that he might go out home to dinner, and that it was time that he should go. Mr. Pickens was soon on the road, carried by his choice saddle. On his arrival he found, to his surprise, a number of horses and buggies on the lawn, then hurrying to the house and, on entering the room, he found it filled with relatives.

The surprise had been so successfully planned that he had no thought of such, and a sumptuous dinner was arranged by the skill of his faithful wife. Those present were:

Berry Deboe and wife, A. J. Pickens and wife, Louis Horning and wife, Will Sullenger and wife, Mrs. Eliza Deboe, Mrs. Nancy Millikan, Rev. L. J. Millikan and wife, of Murrensboro, Ill., and John Pickens.

After dinner a number of valuable presents were unasked. Smiles and congratulations abounded.

Youthful glee dominates the spirit of Mr. Pickens and nothing but plain, cold figures would indicate that he was fifty-six years old. A FRIEND.

Stevens Comedy Company.

The Stevens Comedy Company left Sunday afternoon for Uniontown where they will meet a week's engagement.

Each performance was entertaining and first-class in every detail. "In the Shadow of the Galloway" presented Monday night and "The Black Flag" Friday night were especially interesting and pathetic, with a little vein of humor throughout.

Each member of the troupe was "on" to his duty and proved that he had completely mastered the role which had been assigned him.

Take it all in all, it was a good, clean show and was well patronized and Mr. Roaz, the manager, this year is to be congratulated on securing such an up to date show and it is hoped that he will favor the public with many more before the season is over.

Farm for Sale.

Have for sale a fine 65 acre farm located about one quarter mile from Miller carbonate mine. Good stock barn, new; 3 good springs, good orchard, good frame residence, five rooms; 5 acres of farm in timber, 50 acres in grass; has 14000 ore vein as shown by survey. Sell cheap for cash. Address M. J. TAYLOR, Fredonia, Ky.

Ever notice that when your judgment gets in its work it is always too late?

Marion Thanked.

Thanksgiving Day has come and gone and the only evidence left to remind the good people of the day is perhaps a few number of turkeys.

The good people of Marion have double cause to give thanks. They see their little town built up again in new beauty and on a larger and more commodious scale than ever before.

That the good citizens of Marion see and are thankful for this there is no doubt. The banks and many of the stores closed their doors in commemoration of the day. Thanksgiving services were held at the C. P. church Thursday morning, conducted by Rev. T. A. Conway, pastor of the Baptist church at this place.

There were many family reunions and Thanksgiving dinners on that day of days. Those who have been able to learn so far were: Mrs. Nannie Cochran, Henry Cook, J. L. Travis, Geo. Roberts and E. J. Hayward. There was feasting and merrymaking among old friends and relatives who had not seen each other for a long time.

Skiff Overturned.

Carrsville, Ky., Nov. 30. [Special] By the overturning of a skiff W. L. Baker came near being drowned last Saturday. He and George McCune were preparing to leave Elizabethtown, Ill., where they had been on business, and had just shoved off from the shore when the skiff was overturned, throwing them and the owner in the river. The owner and Mr. McCune got to shore, but Mr. Baker was unable to do so. He was finally taken from the water apparently dead. Some two hours hard work brought him around all right. He is still suffering some at this writing.

Serious Accident.

Carrsville, Ky., Nov. 30. [Special] News has just reached here of a sad accident happening near old Dixon church. Will Todd, while climbing a fence, accidentally discharged a shotgun, the contents of which struck him in the left arm, injuring the member so seriously that amputation at the shoulder was necessary.

Child Badly Burned.

Carrsville, Ky., Nov. 30. [Special] A little child, two years old, of Mr. Frank Kemper, who lives near Eli, was badly burned last Friday evening. The skin was torn from its little back and the back part of its head. It is not expected to live.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH

Every Business Community Should Have a Commercial or Development Organization.

Since the recent State Development Convention in Louisville, the Louisville Commercial Club is more strongly imbued than ever with the possibilities awaiting Kentucky. It believes that every community in the State can profit by this awakened interest, but it is firmly convinced that the profit can be greatly enhanced through an organization of the working forces of the different towns. By working force is meant the mercantile and industrial lines of the different sections. In brief, the Commercial Club feels that a most desirable way to meet and overcome difficulties confronting a business community lies in the organization of business clubs throughout the State and is revivifying bodies which have temporarily lapsed into activity.

Mr. H. A. McDowell, former president of the club, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee, and has appointed as his associates thirteen fifteen leading spirits of Louisville's commercial world and ten prominent editors in different parts of Kentucky.

The Louisville Commercial Club has no axe to grind in the step it is taking to organize more commercial bodies in the State. Its board of directors felt such an interest in State development, as was shown in the recent convention in Louisville, that it is willing to spend a large part of its funds in sending representatives to different cities to work up organization of the kind mentioned.

Any community that desires to take the step indicated will receive from the Louisville Commercial Club a copy of its by-laws and constitution, with suggestions as how to stir up interest in the organization. When the iron is hot enough to be struck, the commercial club will send a representative to help mold the body into definite form.

BIG COAL DEVELOPMENT

Some Future Prospects of Western Kentucky

FIVE OPENINGS AT STURGIS

West Kentucky Coal Company Has 23,000 Acres of Fuel in Union, Webster and Crittenden

BALANCE OF BOND ISSUE OFFERED

The West Kentucky Coal Co. has issued $2,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds and now proposes to carry out its plans to contract for supplying coal for gas and steam to the Laclede Gaslight Co., the Union Electric Light & Power Co. and the United Railway Co. of St. Louis, for which purpose it was organized. These companies, it is stated, now consume about 750,000 tons of coal a year, and it is estimated that a total annual consumption of from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000 tons will be reached by them in a few years.

The mine of the West Kentucky Coal Co. are five in number, and include coal lands of about 23,000 acres in Crittenden, Webster and Union counties, in the vicinity of Sturgis, Ky. They contain five workable veins from three to seven feet thick, and the quality of the coal is of the highest. The opinion of James T. Gardner, vice-president of the Erie Coal Companies, who examined them, is that they embrace 200,000,000 tons of merchantable coal. The mines already developed, it is said, are capable of shipping 2000 tons per day in the near future. Water transportation will be used to convey the coal to St. Louis, a distance of 283 miles, and to other points as far as New Orleans. The company owns and operates coal yards with storage facilities at Paducah, Memphis, and also operates under a lease a yard at New Orleans. It owns and operated a fleet of steamers and barges, which will be enlarged as occasion may demand. While the three St. Louis Cos. named are to take their entire coal supply, any surplus which they do not need will be sold in the market tributary to the Ohio river between the mines and Cairo, Ill., and from the latter point to New Orleans.

A short railroad owned by the company connects its western group of mines with a landing on the Ohio river, where it is shipped on barges, but coal is also shipped from existing mines over the Illinois Central Railroad, a branch of which passes through the lands. Moreover, tests made in the laboratory of coal from four of the veins shows it to be of very superior quality, as did a gas test in by-product oven. Thus the fine quality of the coal for both steam-making and gas-making was assured. The coal has heretofore been sold by the operating companies through Western Kentucky and Tennessee by rail transportation, and also along the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, finding a market in competition with the Pittsburg coal.

The beds dip slightly to the north, and it is said that the coal controlled and minable may be easily from 50 to 100,000,000 tons more than the foregoing estimate. The five workable mines now existing are in two groups, one at the west and the other at the eastern end of the property. The low cost of the coal is expected to result in a wide demand for it, which can easily be met on account of the favorable mining conditions and their freedom from uncertainties.

Messrs. Spencer Trask & Co., of New York, are offering for sale a balance of the bond issue of $2,000,000, most of which they state has been placed with investors. The West Kentucky Coal Co. is controlled by the North American Company, which owns its entire capital stock and which is also largely interested in the three St. Louis companies that will purchase the output. Randolph Rodman is president of the coal company, and from a letter written by him, the information concerning the company's plans and properties were obtained. The fact that Spencer Trask & Co. are offering these securities shows them to be a conservative investment.

New Winter Resort.

To the man whose imaginations is fed with facts and fortified with observation, the southern portion of the United States will always seem the favorite child of omnipotence and its handmaiden—Nature. Practically every resource that ministers to the wealth and greatness of a people has been lavishly placed within its borders.

Through the Creator of this full-bodied magnificence dwell neither here nor there—but every where—we like, in all reverence, to call these Southern states indeed "God's country." One who knows the south realizes how, after material gifts have been so generously bestowed, the designing power completed its work by dotting it liberally with those imperative auxiliaries of modern civilization—resorts, summer and winter. In the case of the South these resorts have proven not only protectors of our people's health; they are adding now and they will add substantially in the future to our actual wealth.

The Florida resorts need no detailed eulogy at this date. They have won already thousands of wealthy Northerners and Southerners from the lure of the European spa or the call of the Riviera. A more wonderful conquest, and one which should interest the entire South, is that of the radiant Sapphire country, that Eden of the north Carolina mountains, with which the word "Toxaway" has become inseparably identified. Its beauties and its health-compelling qualities have been open to civilization for only a few years relatively; yet "Toxaway" means to a host of Southern and Northern people tonic recreation and recuperation under conditions as ideal as can be arranged by the co-partnership of man and Nature.

The six hotels under the management of the Toxaway Hotel Company, with Mr. J. C. Burrows at its head, have been instrumental in this rapid achievement. The Sapphire country itself has done the rest. The hostilities have been artfully located, getting the wide benefits which come from altitudes ranging from 2,250 to 4,750 feet. The far-reaching estate of Toxaway comprises 31,000 acres, in which are more than seventy-five miles of brook and river fishing, yielding the gamut of game trout. In the rugged recesses of the estate there are deer, wild turkey and ruffed grouse, with bears here and there and occasionally quail. The three lakes, like shimmering sapphires, splashed down in the heart of the mountains, with the winding forest roads, create indelible impressions of the place.

With the opening of the winter season Toxaway Inn—the greatest of all the Toxaway resorts—announces itself ready for business for the approaching season after completing the most successful summer season known in the history of summer resorts.

From this time on this institution becomes not only a summer but a winter resort, appealing to the South in the summer and to the North in winter. It is on the direct line of travel from eastern and western points to Florida, and Manager Burrows has made every arrangement to reach the business as it goes to and comes from Florida.

And it is safe to say that those who stop to take in the beauties of the Toxaway country will be amply compensated, for in the matter of scenic attractions there is nothing like it this side of the Rocky Mountains.—Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 12, 1905. 18-St

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective, and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for cough and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. It is especially adapted to children as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing injurious. Mr. E. A. Humphreys, a well-known resident and clerk in the store of Mr. E. Lock, of Alice, Cape Colony, South Africa, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off colds and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Wanted.

Gentleman or lady with good reference, to travel by rail or with a rig. Salary $1,072.00 per year and expenses; salary paid weekly and expenses advanced. Address, with stamp, Jos. A. ALEXANDER, Marion, Ky.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Alay this stormy, irritating condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

"THE CLANSMAN" PROVES UNPOPULAR

And Young Author, Thomas Dixon, Jr., Is Sought by Young Citizens Who Are Injured.

At Columbia, S. C., Thos. Dixon, novelist and playwright, escaped mob violence in this city after the performance of his new play, "The Clansman," dealing with negro rule in South Carolina during the "construction" period, only by locking himself in his room in his hotel.

The play had been heartily hissed by the large audience which gathered, and later, when a number of young men prominent in the social and business life of the city gathered in the front of the hotel with hostile intent and sent up a note asking the playwright to come down, he suspected their purpose and refused.

Talked in their purpose of doing him bodily injury, the young men drew up a set of resolutions setting forth in unmistakable terms their opinion of the author and his play and had them sent up to his room.

The audience was composed almost entirely of white people, there being scarcely a dozen negroes in the gallery. From these there were no demonstrations.

Although he intended to spend Sunday in Columbia, Dixon "received a telegram" calling him to Savannah and left the city.

Tourist Cars Popular.

The idea that an inferior class of people patronize the tourist sleepers is an error. On many trips only the best class of travelers are found. They are merely men and women of good sense who would rather travel to California in this manner and save a snug sum of money to be used elsewhere. It is beginning to be understood that it is by no means necessary for the traveler to spend a large sum of money in order to enjoy a trip to the Pacific coast.

If you cross the continent in one of the tourist sleepers of the Union Pacific you will enjoy your trip and save considerable money. Inquire of J. H. LATHROP, U. A., 901 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

The Hick's Almanac for 1906.

The Rev. I. R. Hick's Almanac will not be published for 1906. But his monthly journal, Word and Works, has been changed into a large and costly magazine, and it will contain horoscopes and weather forecasts and other astronomical features complete. The November number, ready December 20, will contain the forecasts from July to December 1906. The price of this splendid magazine is one dollar a year. See it and you will have it. The November and January numbers containing the Rev. I. R. Hick's forecasts for the whole year, and more complete than ever, can be had by sending at once 25c to Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.

We wish to say to our many friends that this clearing sale does not mean that we are going to retire from business, but we want the room for spring.

DENMAN & LEVE.

OUR FASHION LETTER.

Plaited Neck Ruchings to Be Worn With Cloth Gowns.

PLATEAU HATS OF STIFF FELT

No Hat as Crisp as the New Paris Models—Embroidery Is Still Popular on Gowns and Blouses. Shell Plouces of Plaited Silk.

A sweater has been introduced this year made to wear under Eton jackets and short coats. It is a bolero pure and simple and buttons down the front, finishing at the throat with a small flat bow. There have been Norfolk, varsity sweaters and many other kinds, but this new one bids fair to be a great hit.

Huge neck ruchings of plaited set are to be worn with cloth gowns. They are almost as large as the Elizabeth ruffs and are made of wide, stiff ruchings of plaited net, finished on the ends with long loops of narrow ribbon or velvet. The streamers may be anywhere from a yard to a yard and a half in length. These ruchings are very smart to wear with tailored suits before it is time to put on furs.

The hat of the moment among really well-dressed women, because of its high price, is a perfectly flat plateau made of stiff felt. It is cut in circular shape and measures twelve inches across. It is mounted on a one-inch band that rises two inches at the back and is trimmed with an enormous set of whips placed flat on the crown stretching toward the back. Around the band is a scarf of satin made into three large rosettes at the back. The hat and all its trimmings are of the same coloring.

The gown in the illustration is a true example of the new French jacket. At first glance this model looks like a coat made too short to be worn as a jacket, but there is no mistake. The skirt is developed in the finest kind of black broadcloth and elaborately embroidered in narrow black silk bands. The jacket is cut away at the neck and finished with the ruffles of iridescent blue velvet overlaid with a motif of Irish lace.

DRESS MANDATES.

There is a hat of crimson in any of the new models sent from Paris, and that over reserving some is laid for another season at least.

Whatever may be the question of expense, it is certain that embroidery is still very popular on gowns and blouses. The blouse itself solves a great many problems of dress. It has become such an elaborate affair that it is suitable for evening as well as, in its more simple form, for morning wear. The embroidered silk blouse naturally follows the embroidered linen shirt blouse.

Shell plouces of plaited silk laid in convention I feel pattern around the bottom of the skirt are the newest idea in the way of fineries.

The craze for simplicity in both in hair and outdoor trappings is being shown to a marked degree in the models for the season which hail from Paris.

The very charming and graceful gown sketched is carried out in pale gray cashmere of the shade known as elephant gray, with Irish crochet lace for trimming.

The design would be quite easy to copy at home in almost any soft material.

FRIBBLES AND FOIBLES.

The fancy for green is the natural sequel of the fad for brown, which has practically worn itself out, although in Paris a warm chestnut brown is taking things mildly by storm.

Handsome broadcloths this season are showing invisible plaid effects, a new departure for this conservative material to take.

The new Italian silk underwear now shown in the shops is exquisite. Sets

A VIROU TOQUE.

In this material can be had in white, pale pink, blue and yellow.

Puffy red velvet ribbon is one of the fashionable hat trimmings in Paris.

Petticoats in exquisite pompadour silks with lace ruffles are charming to wear with evening gowns.

Quantities of peacock blue are seen in the new hat trimmings, showing popularity with different shades of plum and purple. Silver gauze makes a modish hat when faced with a dark shade of velvet.

The new silks in seamed and shot effects are particularly lovely.

A number of the smartest chapeaux are made of silk satin and broad cloth edged with gold or silver gauze.

The millinery creation illustrated is from the Maison Viot, Paris. It is a green beaver toque trimmed with a smart velvet bow at the side and a large buckle.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Gray covert cloth is gaining ground steadily. It is a copy of an English fat in shade being a standard one in John Bull's island, just as the tan covert has been in America.

Nearly all of the new hats have little trimming about the crown or upper brim. The adornment is massed under

BLACK BRUSSELS NET WAIST.

The trim and closely where the hat is fitted and pulled. Often the only thing seen on the crown is a bit of velvet ribbon and perhaps an ornamental long feather which need be attached to the crown or upper brim. The coat covered over and under the brim. Tips of combs are caught in clusters against the hair.

The newest effect in winter wear is known as the cross-hatched plaid. In this new mode, plaid and some very pretty coloring. In the hands of the new designers contrasts well with, but there will be the real power of the artist in creating novel and harmonious effects.

The velvet skirt is considered quite the correct thing to wear with separate shirt waists of all domestic tones. It is developed in both green and black are the favorite colors. The gentle worn may be either of velveteen or a well fitted one of soft leather.

Buttons play a prominent part in the season's trimming scheme, and some smart cloth coats are adorned with huge buttons covered with cloth and elaborately beaded with different colored beads.

The skirt in the illustration is of black broadcloth trimmed with special cotton of blue as a trimmings. The net is the same as a pair of undergarments. The skirt is made to form a deep cuff. The gentle is of velvet.

THE BROWNIES HAVE ARRIVED IN MARION!

are Calling on All the Principal Business Firms in the City--Will Remain Over Next Week and the Rest of the Story to be Told in Our Next Issue.

WHEN Palmer Cox, the Brownies' papa, Made up his mind that it was proper To tell the story of these folk, He must have thought it was a joke To slight the town in which you live And this is why this rhyme I give To you, and I will vouch its truth To sleepers all, in age or youth. The Brownies made your town a visit The date's not necessary, is it? And if their trip you'll kindly read up In all the steps by which they lead up, You'll learn more profitable things Than those of which old Palmer sings. I tell you where they made it pay To buy the things they got that day. Also the things they chanced to see As here and there they wandered free In mischief, interest and glee— And no matter how you would have it to be, This is their trip as they told it to me.

FROM the uttermost limits of Brownie land As though they were captured by unseen hand, Came all of the busy little crowd With hustle and bustle and laughter loud. To visit our town, new, beautiful town, Through streets and avenues up and down. But not for pleasure did they come From out the dainty Brownie home, But bent on business, every one. Their work must end ere play begun. 'Twas in a great balloon they came The "Brownie Special" was its name. And when they lighted, each one stumbled, And clothes were ruined as they tumbled. Hat straight to Vandell-Gingherm they flew, And soon were strutting in garments new That fit like the bark on a sycamore tree, And each one said: "How can it be That they can sell good clothes so cheap, And for the money such a heap?" For never had the Brownies seen (Though they around the world had been) Such splendid fitting garments sold For such a little stack of gold.

The Brownies are a tasty lot, Some things they like, some things they do not Just like some bigger folks, and so That's why these dainty eaters go To M. Copher's grocery to trade, Who keeps all dainties grown or made, And all things else in eating stuff. A little cash will buy enough.

There's not a wifeless Brownie lad But loves some Brownie girl like mad. And when her favor he would win He knows just how he should begin. He takes her straight to Haynes & Taylor's place, Where smiles of radiance wreath her face As smoothing o'er locks of gold, She takes the glass just so, or cold.

Within a case upon the street The Brownies saw some faces sweet That seemed alive—but they were not. And little Patrick on the spot Declared he'd have his "peter took," And Patrick knew just like a book That J. L. Stewart made the best, and so, All had them taken there, you know.

The little Chinese had a tooth That oft had pained the yellow youth, And now as it began to thump, And each wee fiber seemed to jump, He howled like Jericho, and ran To Dr. F. W. Nunn, the dentist man, Who fixed the tooth up good as new, And did it without hurting, too.

Pictures, books of all descriptions, Books in which to write inscriptions, Slates and pencils, paper, pens, Child books, boys', girls', women's, men's, Ink, wall paper, moulding, toys, Every sort of homestead joys That the finer nature craves, For which man all hardships braves, Were found at Woods & Orme's store.

Man could not have thought of more Of the pleasant things of earth Whence assistance had their birth, And the Brownies brought and brought, With the money they had brought, Till of wanting there was naught.

Hammers, augers, squares and screws, Hatchets, nails—that all men use, Levels, braces, chisels, saws, Companies with iron jaws, Lawn mowers, brushes, hose and locks, Flat irons, glass and whetting rocks, O, this full stock's name is legion, Largest kept in all this region. The man who made the dictionary Might try to name the things they carry, But all in vain—There's nothing missed From Cochran & Pickens' hardware list Also in paints they keep the best.

"I want some perfumes, toilet soap, Also some medicines, I hope That Haynes & Taylor's drug store is open yet, For nowhere else can people get Such fresh, pure goods and such a stock At figures too, that seemed to mock Competitors, and beat them too," Thus spoke one Brownie, and it's true.

But something practical arose Or aught else, 'twas the need of stuff To cook and eat. And well enough Each one was pleased when he had gone To Morris & Yates' grocery further on; The stock was large, fresh, clean, complete, And prices there cannot be beat.

Diamonds, cut-glass, watches, rings, Every sort of pretty things The Brownies found at prices low At Levi Cook's where wise folks go To buy their jewelry, and there The Brownies learned what bargains were. He wise—these trips' example heed, Where'er some jewelry you need.

Their journey was to last a day And so, before they went away They bought provisions for their teams At prices they had heard in dreams. No hesitancy then they felt In giving Williams & Giness the best For keeping the finest stock of feed For beast of milk or draft or speed.

And now to please the inner man With product of the pot and pan, The hungry Brownies hustled out To New Marion Hotel—a merry rout. And everything was cooked just right; The quantity was "out o' sight" And every bite they had to eat They all declared was hard to beat.

Some furniture the Brownies needed, And as their friends' advice they heeded, They went to Nunn & Tucker's where they found Their every need, and now they sound The praises of the goods they bought At Nunn & Tucker's store; and they ought. "For sure," says Pat, "we struck it rich; Who ever heard before of such?"

Scarcely had they shrunk their wondering eyes Once more unto their natural size, When once again their wonder grew And out again those eye balls flew To greet a sight so wondrous grand The Brownies thought 'twas Fairyland. There, not a thing those Brownies missed That e'er was found on shopping list.

Service for table, lamps and brooms, All household trinkets; brides and grooms Can find no better place to go If quantity is what they'd show Along with quality that's prime They buy at Morris & Yates' every time. And dishes, tinware, dolls and books Make plenty everywhere one looks.

Then to insure 'gainst fire and storm That little home so snug and warm, To Geo. M. Urdler & Co. the Brownies went, And ere they left they were content That whatever happened, flood or fire, Or wrathful storm—Jehovah's ire, They'd get good pay for what was lent, And at a very moderate cost.

To gain a thorough business knowledge The Brownies sought a business college. 'Twas Marion High School where they found The wisdom, ample and profound, To keep their books and deal with banks, And not a Brownie in their ranks But knew how interest comes and goes And how the tide of traffic flows.

"I want some nails and farmers' tools," Exclaimed two lads; they were no fools, For straight to Hina-Bald's they went, On getting great big bargains bent, For they had read the papers o'er Before they left the Brownie shore, And as they had no cash to burn They knew which way to make the turn To go where stock is large and good As any kept since Noah's flood. They purchased files and planes and chisels, Hickeys, chains and wheelmen's whistles In hardware line; and they refrained Until no want to them remained, When they could carry nothing more; And then they bolted from the door, Set down their loads to count their money Then laughed as if 'twas all quite funny.

"It Pays to Advertise."

The shades of night were falling fast As through an Alpine village passed A youth who bore 'mid snow and ice, A banner with this strange device: "It pays to advertise."

His brow was bright, his smile was sweet And as he passed with rapid feet, Like clarion, clear and strong, The accents of a well known song. "It pays to advertise."

In happy homes he saw the light And helped to make homes more bright By telling them wherever he went The adage that would bring content. "It pays to advertise."

"Come back, come back!" a maiden said As onward fast the young man sped, Tell us the news as you go by: This was the stranger's sole reply: "It pays to advertise."

Beware the pine trees withered branch, "Beware the awful avalanche," The maid then cried as he onward sped To tell the world that merchants said "It pays to advertise."

The pious monks upon the height Asked faintly if they heard aright A voice crying through the air This oft-repeated, potent prayer, "It pays to advertise."

There, in the twilight, cold and gray, Lifeless, but beautiful he lay, Still bearing in his hand of ice, The banner with this true device, "It pays to advertise."

It is a good idea to train all the children in the way of going to Sunday school every Sunday afternoon. It gives their father an undisturbed opportunity of taking a nap.

Stereoptican Lecture.

Last Sunday evening Rev. T. C. Gebauer, State organizer of Kentucky Sunday school association, presented his stereoptican lecture to a large and interested audience at the Chamberlain Presbyterian church. Rev. Gebauer is highly entertaining and is one of the most earnest workers in the great cause of Sunday school work.

In his simple and earnest way he complimented us on our new Marion and said we should make it a new Marion in both word and deed in religious work as well as in other work.
